

Inburgering study planner: an 8-week example plan

For anyone preparing for the inburgering exam, at any level. This is an example plan: change the number of weeks to fit your own exam date and the exam parts you need. Check which parts and which level apply to you on the DUO website.

How do I plan my study?
Pick fixed moments each week, practise one or two exam parts per session, and end each week by checking what went well and what needs more work.

Weeks 1–2: get to know the exam

[ ] Find out which exam parts and which level you need (duo.nl).
[ ] Try a few questions of each part to see where you stand.
[ ] Write down your two weakest parts.

Weeks 3–5: practise every part

[ ] Practise your weakest parts first, three or four times a week.
[ ] Read and listen to a little Dutch every day: news for beginners, signs, letters.
[ ] Write one short message per week and check it with the checklist.

Weeks 6–7: practise like the exam

[ ] Do a full practice test per part, with a timer.
[ ] Read the explanation of every mistake.
[ ] Practise speaking out loud, even alone.

Week 8: the last week

[ ] Repeat the questions you got wrong earlier.
[ ] Check the time, address and ID you need for your exam day.
[ ] Sleep well and keep the last day light.

Ask yourself every week

[ ] Which part went better than last week?
[ ] Which mistake did I make more than once?
[ ] What will I practise first next week?
[ ] On which days and times will I study?

Read online: https://inburgeringpass.nl/en/free-study-materials/study-planner
Practise for free: inburgeringpass.nl/en/

InburgeringPass · version 2026-11-10 · Practice material, not official DUO exam tasks. InburgeringPass is independent and not affiliated with DUO. Official information: duo.nl/inburgeren